How much would you risk to stand up for your beliefs When the Powell family moves to Savannah Georgia in 1947, they hope against hope that theyll be welcomed. But theyre Northerners and worse, theyre white civil rights advocates almost a decade too early. The American South is deeply segregated. At first their daughter, May, can pretend theyre the same as everyone else. It means keeping quiet when she knows she should speak up, but its worth the sacrifice to win friends. Keeping secrets has been the norm for her new homes residents for forty years anyway, and the old lady who lived in the house before them left more than her furniture when she died. May finds her diaries and letters, unraveling a tale of love and loss that reaches across the generations with devastating consequences. Unfortunately Mays parents are soon putting their beliefs into action. When they wake to find that theyre the only family on the block with a Ku Klux Klan cross blazing on their front lawn, the time comes for them to finally decide between doing whats easy and doing whats right.
