The events of the following five years, for the most part on old ground, I pass over, only remarking that, after the death of my protector, Mehemet Ali Pacha, I left the service of the Egyptian government, and took advantage of the abolition of the monopoly of the produce of the Soudan to establish myself in the gum-arabic trade at Il Obeid, where I resided five years. It was, therefore, not until the year 1853, when that trade had become paralysed by native competition, and a greatly increased export from the west coast to the English tmrkets, making it no longer remunerative, that I turned my attention to the far interior, the high-road to which was the White Nile. THE WHITE NILE. 337 This stately river had been navigated in 1839-42 by...
